Helping Others Pursue Education

We are living through a time of intense change in our schools, but also one that affords us with a unique opportunity for progress, innovation, and a new and better normal. When it comes to our nation's K-12, the pandemic has highlighted areas for improvement related to student engagement and learning, and the topic of equity in the classroom environment is taking center stage.

Equity can be defined as the point where every student has access to an equal opportunity with the resources, environment, and support they need to be successful. Further, every child has what he/she needs when they need it.

At SitelogIQ, we believe in designing future ready learning environments that work for all kids and communities. We partner with educators across the U.S. to identify and develop immediate and long-term facility solutions that directly impact student health and safety. Quality classroom environments drive equitable outcomes through student and community success, improved achievement, and increased attendance.

To facilitate this important dialogue and provide a safe platform for idea sharing among superintendents, we engaged education experts, our customers, and school partners to join the conversation through a Webinar series we called HOPE – Helping Others Pursue Education.
